The two teams appeared on the field about 20 minutes before the blow of the whistle, and it was evident that there was not much advantage.

FIRST HALF.

Dewitt kicked off for Princeton to Hart, who ran back twenty yards before being downed. Only once in the first half was Princeton's goal in danger, the ball being in Georgetown's territory most of the time. On a umbed kick Georgetow secured the bill on Princeton's ten-yard line and pushed it down to the one-yard line, but Princeton held like a rock. The hal ended with the ball on Georgetown's live-yard line.
